Canadian Company Launches Designer Sex Furniture Line

Designed to take lovemaking to new heights, Lovebumper™ sex furniture has vibrational qualities built right in.

Vancouver, BC, Canada. May 12th 2008. Vancouver is now the destination for designer sex furniture. Local company, Lovebumper Inc., has launched a new line of sex furniture designed to take lovemaking to new heights.

In the past, furniture has been created for the purpose of sex but it was confined to the world of simple shapes and blocks.

Industrial design and ergonomics principles were applied to make Lovebumper™ work with the human body and hold it in the most pleasurable positions possible. Lovebumper designers looked at hundreds of sexual positions and all types of bodies and came up with feel-good designs that improve angles and help couples get even closer during sex. They also added vibrational qualities to the furniture, helping to spread even more happiness to its owners.

The furniture is currently being sold in high-end sex stores in Canada and the US, and is also available at Lovebumper.com.

Lovebumper is donating a portion of its profits to Aids relief in Africa.
